

“Living with the Coast” Workshop

Living near the water, you can enjoy the beauty of Puget Sound and witness the forces of nature that continually shape and reshape its beaches.

By being close to the water, your home and property are also more likely to feel the effects of those forces, which at times may even threaten your property.

Whether you are a coastal landowner, a land-use professional, or a curious and concerned citizen, this workshop will help you to better understand our living shoreline and provide you with tips on living in harmony with the Sound.

Learn About:

- Geology & Landslides
- Drainage
- Vegetation for Erosion Control
- Homeowner Prevention Measures
- Near Shore Habitat
- Effects of Pollution

Produced through funding from the Public Involvement and Education project, financed by proceeds from the Washington State Water Quality Account and administered by the Puget Sound Action Team.

PUGET SOUND
WATER QUALITY
ACTION TEAM
Office of the Governor

Two Workshops:

Saturday April 14th 12:30 – 4:30
With beach walk

OR

Tuesday April 17th 6:30 – 9:00
p.m.

Class size is limited. Pre-registration is recommended

Call 000-000-0000
Sam Gibboney

Workshops will be held at the WSU Cooperative Extension Learning Center in Port Hadlock.